M Explosion-proof Technology (Shanghai) Co., Ltd. – Located in Shanghai, MAM has a strong R&D team and international certifications including ATEX, IECEx, and TR CU. Their products are widely used in oil, gas, petrochemical, pharmaceutical, and food industries, and they emphasize safety and smart technology integration. Zhejiang Yutao Intelligent Equipment Co., Ltd. – This company integrates R&D, production, and sales, focusing on industrial explosion-proof solutions for petroleum, chemical, coal, power, medicine, and ship industries.

They offer non-standard customization for distribution boxes, junction boxes, control boxes, and other explosion-proof equipment. Applications and StandardsExplosion-proof distribution boxes from these manufacturers are suitable for: Flammable and explosive gas environments: oil exploitation, refining, chemical plants, offshore platforms, and oil tankers. Flammable dust environments: military industry, ports, grain storage, and metal processing.

Zones and classifications: Zone 1 and Zone 2 for explosive gases; IIA, IIB, IIC gas groups; areas 21 and 22 for dust. Temperature groups: T1 to T6, suitable for high protection and corrosive environments. These boxes are used for power distribution, lighting control, electrical equipment on/off control, central signal processing, and central control systems.

Customization and Procurement

Many Chinese manufacturers provide OEM services, allowing custom branding, busbar configurations, cable entry modifications, and modular designs. Pricing varies based on specifications, order volume, and customization requirements. For rapid procurement, distributors can request price lists and lead times directly from the factories.

Summary

China offers a robust selection of explosion-proof distribution box manufacturers with international certifications, extensive industrial applications, and customization options. Companies like Shandong Zhongtan, Zhejiang Tengxuan, MAM, and Zhejiang Yutao are recognized for quality, safety, and innovation, making them suitable partners for industrial projects in hazardous environments.
