Overview of Cable Tray OptionsTop-mounted cable trays are available in metal (galvanized steel, stainless steel), PVC, and fiberglass. Common dimensions include widths from 50 mm to 1000 mm and heights from 25 mm to 300 mm, with thicknesses ranging from 0.

5 mm to 2. 5 mm. Finishes such as pre-galvanized, powder-coated, or painted affect both durability and cost.

Price Factors

Material: Galvanized steel is the most common and cost-effective for industrial and telecommunication applications. Stainless steel or fiberglass trays are more expensive due to corrosion resistance and durability. Size and Load Capacity: Larger trays with higher load capacity cost more.

For example, a 100 mm wide tray is cheaper than a 500 mm wide tray. Finish and Coating: Powder-coated or pre-galvanized trays are priced higher than plain steel due to added protection against corrosion. Supplier and Quantity: Bulk orders from local suppliers like Brilltech Engineers or via B2B platforms such as TradeKey and ExportHub can reduce per-meter costs.
